Testimony: Quote from Taylor below

"I knew that a counseling degree was not the typical path for a minister, but I know that it is responsible for a wealth of spiritual knowledge and growth within myself. I can say without a doubt I am a more complete person after the counseling program. I was able to receive training in the core seminary classes such as hermeneutics and systematic theology, but I was also able to take classes that offered me the opportunity and challenges to examine myself and my faith, memorize the Book of Philippians, and walk with many hurting people from the community of New Orleans. I was afforded the chance to share the Gospel several times a week while walking couples through marriage therapy, students through anxiety, or community members through addictions. These classes whether counseling or theology helped to shape who I am now and hopefully who I will be as a Minister."

Note: Additional information will be distributed soon regarding calling Rev. Taylor Head and family as our Minister of Youth & Education.
